INTEGRATION OF JUSTICE SECTOR INSTITUTIONS – POLICE, PRISONS, PROSECUTION

BACKGROUND & OBJECTIVE

- The District Judiciary collaborated with PITB to integrate its CMS with police, prosecution, and prison systems.
- The integration links CMS with PSRMS, Prosecution's CFMS, and Prison Management Information System (PMIS).
- The objective is to enable real-time data exchange and improved coordination across the criminal justice system.
- Courts can now access FIRs, investigation statuses, prosecution reports, and prisoner records swiftly.
- The system is fully ready for deployment, marking a major step toward modernizing judicial operations.

IMPACT, OUTCOME AND BENEFITS

- The judiciary can now track delayed challans and access real-time prisoner data.
- Courts have automated access to case-related information, reducing manual record retrieval.
- Procedural delays were minimized through seamless inter-institutional digital coordination.
- A fully integrated digital link between the judiciary, police, prosecution, and prisons was established.
- Real-time data exchange is now operational across all connected justice sector institutions.
- Manual coordination between departments has been substantially reduced.
- Improved transparency and accountability across the criminal justice system.
